WASHINGTON

We have no rule of Czar or King
Upon our history page,
But, greater far, the honored name
Of Washington, our heritage!

Adown the years his greatness shines,
His noble deeds, his courage grand,
Which saved for us in darkest days,
A precious gift, our native land!

All honor to his stainless name,
The founder of our great estate,
And may we heed his counsel still,—
To keep our land inviolate!

Norway Woman's Club

Musical Program Presented Tuesday Afternoon by Mrs. Kilborn and Mr. Tremblay

The Norway Woman's Club had a delightful afternoon, Tuesday, and Legion Hall was filled with an appreciative and very responsive audience. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Helen Pendexter, Mrs. Annie Andrews presided, opening the meeting with singing America, and the club collect. A short business meeting followed, when Mrs. Andrews introduced the artists, one a local musician, Mrs. Pearl Cook Kilborn, and the other, from Portland, Wilfred Tremblay, accomplished pianist. They gave a very delightful program on the marimba and piano, Mr. Tremblay accompanying Mrs. Kilborn in addition to his solo selections. Their program was as follows:

Sonata Pathetique
1 Grave: Allegro con brio ....Beethoven
2. Andante ....Beethoven
3. Rondo ....Beethoven
Mr. Tremblay

1. My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice, from Samson and Delila ....Saint-Saens
2. Minuet ....Pader
3. The Evening Star from Tannhauser ....Wagner
Mrs. Kilborn

Valse ....Chopin
Nocturne
Polonaise
Mr. Tremblay

The Rosary ....Ethelbert Nevin
The Old Refrain ....Fritz Kriesler
Mrs. Kilborn

Prelude ....Rachmaninoff
Melodie ....Rachmaninoff
Tarantella (Venezia e Napoli) ....Liszt
Mr. Tremblay

Mrs. Kilborn gave encores after both her groups. That the program was enjoyed was evidenced by the hearty applause and it was declared as one of the outstanding afternoons of the year. A social hour followed and the artists were given an informal reception. During the concert, Mrs. Kilborn was presented with flowers from the members of the Ninovus Club, of which she is a member.

The Club received an invitation to visit the South Paris Community Club Feb. 23rd, when Mrs. Morrill-Hamlin will be the annual speaker. This was accepted. Notice was given that the Red Cross and Kiwanis Club are serving hot lunches at the schoolhouse noon times, and any members who have jellies or marmalade that they would donate, it would be appreciated.

LAKE TEMPLE NOTES

A George Washington program followed the regular meeting of Lake Temple Pythian Sisters meeting Tuesday evening. Articles on the life and activities of Washington were read and quotations given. A Washington historical guessing contest was interesting and a memory tester. Lunch was served and a social hour followed. A number of visitors from Hamlin Lodge were present.

The card party at the home of Mrs. Mary Kimball, Saturday evening was enjoyed by a large number and a good sum was collected for the special fund. Because of the minstrel show next week the usual party will be carried forward to a date to be announced.

Mrs. Florence Fancuf, Miss Jessie Everett and Mrs. Mary Kimball attended the mid-winter meeting of Past Chiefs Association at Augusta. They went by automobile and found excellent roads.

KIWANIS COMEDY

Watch for the date of "The Nightcap" a mystery comedy in three acts, produced originally at the 38th St. Theatre, New York, and by special arrangement with Samuel French of New York and presented by the Kiwanis Club.

LEGALIZED ICE FISHING BELOW CROCKETT'S BRIDGE

Fishing through the ice on the lower part of Lake Pennesseewassee known as the "Bog" will be legal in accordance with the general laws, commencing Mar. 5, 1932. The legal territory is from the outlet at the dam to certain signs posted below Crockett's Bridge. A public notice appears in this issue of the Advertiser.

This decision by Geo. J. Stobie, Fish and Game Commissioner, follows a hearing on the question of opening Lower Pennesseewassee to ice fishing, held at the Opera House, Saturday forenoon. The meeting was largely attended and the sentiments strongly in favor of the action.

Mrs. Georgie Tucker celebrated her 86th birthday, Tuesday, and in the evening she was given a happy surprise when several ladies made their appearance for a game of bridge. They included Mrs. Florence Pike, Mrs. Gertrude Hosmer, Mrs. Emma Sargent, who arrived first and had started to play before the others arrived and the hostess did not think much about any birthday significance until the other four were announced, Miss Emma Smith, Mrs. Estelle Bell, Mrs. Etta Ridlon and Miss Charlotte Lovejoy. Mrs. Tucker was presented with flowers and congratulations followed. Two tables were filled for bridge, the hostess enjoying a game of cards as well as the younger members of the party.

Economizing on Schools

Another Taxpayer Views

In your last issue there was a letter from a tax payer that interested me exceedingly, and on account of the rather unusual suggestions made I would like to offer still more suggestions for the consideration of the one that wrote that letter, and for any other tax payers that may be interested.

The author suggested that the owners of wood lots might be willing to give the wood, and that unemployed men might be willing to cut it and haul it to the various schoolhouses, and that women might be found that might be willing to clean the schoolhouses for nothing. Probably others might be found to do the janitor work necessary for patriotic reasons and to save expense.

Then the author makes the somewhat surprising statement that the teachers should have more pay, if necessary, to hold them in the positions. The author of this letter is not an old maid, or an old bachelor and is neither wealthy or notoriously close in dealing with every day business matters, is on good terms with the tax collector and by prudent and careful living has managed to keep all bills paid and hopes to continue to do so without the aid of help.

I would like to suggest that the author of the article referred to should go to some owners of wood lots, who are having a hard time to raise the money to pay their taxes, and suggest that they give the wood to the town, and then to the unemployed men, that do not know where the next weeks living expenses are coming from, and suggest that they cut and haul the wood for nothing, and then to the tired and discouraged women that need money to buy groceries and clothes with and ask them if they will clean the school houses without pay.

And after having done this, go to the school teachers, who are exceedingly well paid, and who get a year's salary for working six to eight hours a day for thirty-six weeks in a year, and ask them what good excuse they have for asking or expecting the present wages when all other wages are being reduced, railroads, government, industrial and living expenses are almost back to pre-war prices.

After this has been done, I would be glad to see another letter from the same author stating his or her experiences, and I feel quite sure the editor of the Advertiser will be willing to print it.

—Another Taxpayer.

LOWER TAXES AGAIN

Those who wish to see taxes lowered, saw in last weeks paper, ample evidence of the need of having appropriations cut down at the annual town meeting. When the cost of running every department has so largely increased within a few years—in some cases nearly double—it requires no particular mention of any one that needs pruning.

Every one in the present hard times should have the same treatment. This is horse sense and good judgement in any way it can be viewed.

If the citizen has "howled" for lower taxes, his critics have brayed like the jack for particulars, when none were required, for the necessity for pruning was apparent to every one and better known to them than to him. The following is in point concerning their "he-haws" for particulars: An Irishman was once brought into court for some criminal offense and upon being asked whether he was guilty or not guilty, replied, "An begorra, how can I tell till I hear the ividence."

BILLS NEARLY DOUBLE IN ELEVEN YEARS

To Cut Expenses We Must Go Without Something

Schools are blamed by some, but practical way of reducing has not as yet been revealed

Three things of unusual interest appear in the Norway Advertiser of Feb. 12. A former citizen of Norway wishes to remark that the problems of municipal costs appear to be the same, where he formerly lived as where he now resides and that he would like to try a bit of analysis of them.

The first of the three things is Fred E. Smith's table of town costs for the years 1919 and 1930 and also two of the intervening years. The people will have the chance to study the expenses for 1931 when the report is printed in comparison with the figures shown in this table which is on its merits, the story that leads the paper.

The second thing is the article—"What About Taxes?" on page 4. The third is on page 6—the citations from the Bethel Citizen and the Bridgton News, headed —"Some Tax Reduction Suggestions".

There also are some other things revealing the degree to which thoughts about taxation are permeating the people's minds.

THE NORWAY TOWN EXPENSES

First looking at Mr. Smith's table of Norway town costs, a few percentages are readily worked out, of comparison between 1919 and 1930.

Schools increased 111%.
Roads, etc., increased 77%.
Pauper expense increased 42%.
General expense increased 128%.
Total town expenses increased 99%.

COST OF SCHOOLS

The cost of schools in the eleven years from 1919 to 1930 increased 111% in Norway. The principle item is a group of expenses—common schools, high school text books, supplies. Perhaps if these were specified separately, it might throw a little light, but only a little on the distribution of the moneys.

There are many persons who feel that it is a mistake to furnish the text books at the expense of the taxpayers and it certainly has resulted in children and parents not caring for the books as was done when they were an expense to the families instead of the taxpayers.

It has been said that the books cost the taxpayers nearly twice as much as they would cost the parents and this in spite of the fact that they are now bought at wholesale prices and as a family expense would be at retail prices.

Your letter from "An Interested Taxpayer" says of this school account, "The entire supply account can be saved if the town will vote that the parents furnish all that is needed."

Can the town so vote? Certainly the law prevents any such town action regarding text books. How is it with the furnishing of the other supplies. Chalk for the blackboards was a school expense more than half a century ago. As to paper and lead pencils, does the Norway Advertiser still sell scribbling paper for the schools? It may be, Mr. Editor that this question better not be pressed. The school slates and slate pencils were criticized as physical nastiness, but were never accused of being unduly expensive.

One great boost to school costs in Norway came about thirty-five years ago, when the Legislature abolished the school districts and forced the town to support all the schools in the town. The village had been having three terms of school yearly—thirty-three weeks, if memory is accurate. The rural schools had been mostly getting along with about twenty to twenty-five weeks. The village had a surplus fund to pay for the first third or more than one-third of the year. The rural schools had almost no surplus.

When it was all dumped into one fund, the town did not at first realize the need for more taxation to bring the rural schools to a par with the village schools in the time given to schooling each year. It did not take long for the town as a whole to use up the village's surplus school funds and then, under the superintendency of the late Dr. Herman L. Bartlett the school year for the whole town had to be cut short because there was not money enough to go the whole school year as anticipated.

The clipping from the Bridgton News suggests a sharper scrutiny of appropriations for schools and explains that school appropriations have been "creeping up for the last few years". They have been increasing during a longer period—during nearly forty years. Items were the abolishing of the school districts and the law to require a longer school year—thirty or more weeks, also the purchasing of text books and more could be mentioned.

"An interested" taxpayer tells how the men of the old school district used to contribute the year's fuel from their own woodlots and deliver it at the schoolhouse all fitted for the stove and the women used to have a semi-yearly "bee" for cleaning the schoolhouse. In other districts the men made a "bee" when the schoolhouse needed shingling or painting, etc.

The people of the school districts lost their feeling of responsibility for such things when the districts were abolished and the management was put in the hands of the town's school committee with head-

Figures From Original Records

In last week's issue of the Norway Advertiser, the total expenditure for schools was given, for representative years 1919, 1922, 1926 and 1930. These expenditures as printed were approximately accurate, but gave only one side of the picture. When we consider the increased value of the school plant, the increased enrollment in both elementary and high schools, and the enrichment of our curriculum, together with the increased source of revenue outside of the town appropriation, the appropriation by the town for maintaining our schools is not exorbitant.

These figures which follow are taken from original records and should be of far more value to the reader than unexplained totals taken from a printed report.

Superior Court

Civil Cases On Trial

The first civil case was heard Thursday, being Eddie Kaustinen vs. Sani Hinden and John Hinden, trustees. This was a suit for damages brought under the statute which makes the person who sells or gives liquor to another person responsible for the damage done as the result.

This suit was another chapter in the Waterford shooting case on Dec. 23, 1930, which followed a pre-Christmas drinking party on Hemlock Hill. On that day John Kaustinen, accompanied by the boy, Eddie, who is the plaintiff in this action, drove to the Hinden house, and the father became much intoxicated. Late in the afternoon he was shot and instantly killed in the kitchen of the Hinden house by Mrs. Hinden, using a shot gun loaded with a slug for deer. At the February term of court at South Paris, Mrs. Hinden was tried on the charge of murder. She alleged that she shot Kaustinen in self-defence while repelling an assault upon her, and as stated above, she was acquitted. A number of the witnesses were Finnish and Rev. George Autio was employed as court interpreter. George A. Hutchins and Peter MacDonald of Rumford were attorneys for the plaintiff and Judge Matthew McCarthy of Rumford and Robert B. Dow of Norway for the defense. A settlement out of court was made, and the case was withdrawn from the jury.

Stanley Kalando of Rumford, indicted for assault with intent to kill, upon Mrs. Bernice Belskis, also of Rumford, was pronounced guilty by the jury. Kalando was sentenced to six months in the county jail. The affair occurred in Rumford, Dec. 13, at a house on Waldo street, where Kalando owed a bill for room rent. An argument over the amount resulted in Kalando striking Mrs. Belskis with an iron shoe last, inflicting a scalp wound. Kalando denied the act, but said both Mr. and Mrs. Belskis attacked him, knocked him down and treated him roughly. Most of the testimony was taken with John Wiskont, the Lithuranian interpreter. County Attorney E. Walker Abbott for the state and Arthur Henry Rumford, and Robert W. Dow, Norway, for the defence.

A short case on Saturday resulted in a verdict of not guilty in the case of Melvin White of Andover, charged with the manufacture of liquor. This was based on the finding of a hide containing mash and equipment for the manufacture, by Deputy Sheriff Eustis and Police Officer Robichaud, on the Farrington farm in East Andover. White denied knowledge of the outfit.

The Dunbar auto accident case, a retrial of $14,000 suit, started Monday and held the attention of the court and jury until well into the week.

These cases were heard in May at Rumford and awards were returned by the jury as follows: Mrs. Poland, $3,000.; Miss Collins, $500, and Constance Poland, $100. An appeal was taken to Law court on the grounds of hearsay evidence and a new trial granted. A fourth suit, that of Charles Poland, husband of Frances Poland, asking for $6,000 for loss of companionship and expenses was not brought up again. He was awarded $500 at the first trial.

The actions were brought by Mrs. Frances Poland, her step-daughter Constance Poland and niece, Miss Helen Collins, against Mrs. Poland's sister, Mrs. Ann Dunbar of Bangor, as the result of an automobile accident October 23, 1931, on the road between Skowhegan and Bangor, when a Hudson sedan owned and driven by Mrs. Dunbar, crashed into a ledge, injuring the plaintiffs.

Important medical witnesses have appeared since the case was reopened, among them Dr. Joseph Thibodeau of Rumford and Dr. George B. O'Connell, surgeon of St. Mary's General Hospital at Lewiston. Their testimony failed to harmonize. Dr. O'Connell examined the plaintiffs, Monday afternoon in a room at the court house and admitted the work was accomplished in about forty-five minutes.

Dr. Thibodeau explained at length the injuried received by each plaintiff and the condition of each patient at the examination this week. X-ray pictures taken Sunday were shown.

Other witnesses were Constance Poland, Mrs. Cecilia Baker of Bangor, Chas. Poland and Mrs. Dunbar, Mrs. Anna Sutton and Mrs. Pauline Russell.

Attorneys George Hutchins, Arthur Henry and Peter MacDonald all of Rumford were for the plaintiffs and Attorney Lancaster for the defense.

The testimony was concluded Wednesday afternoon and arguments started Thursday morning.

DAUGHTERS OF UNION VETERANS

Elizabeth Crockett Blake Tent, Daughters of Union Veterans, held regular meeting Friday evening. It was voted to serve the annual town meeting dinner on March 7th and a committee composed of Mrs. Laura Edwards, Mrs. Hester Walker and Mrs. Ellen Ayer was appointed.

It was voted to purchase another case of metal sponges as there has been such a demand for more of them.

Plans were made for a special gathering for the two hundredth anniversary of Washington's birthday and to entertain the members of Abigail Whitman Chapter, D. A. R., for supper. This will take place on Monday evening, Feb. 22, at the Methodist Community Hall. Supper at 6:45 and the visiting Daughters of the "Older Period" will tell some things about Washington as they have been making quite a study of his life. Mrs. Gladys Noyes, Mrs. Virgie Merrill, Mrs. Mary Kimball have charge of the supper; Mrs Fannie Monk of the dining room, and Miss Carrie Tucker and Mrs. Maybelle Bell of the music.

It was voted to close the bean bag contest that has been running during several meetings, on April 8th, and on the 22nd the winning side will be guests of the losers, in some kind of a gathering.

THE PENNESSEEWASSEE 4-H SEWING CLUB

The Pennesseewassee 4-H Sewing Club answered the roll call, Feb. 13, with a story of Lincoln.

The first year girls who had finished their holders, started their laundry bags. The second year girls who have finished their dresser scarfs will start pillow slips at the next meeting.

The Valentine party was much enjoyed. There was a Valentine box, games and refreshments.

A judging contest will be held Friday, Feb. 19, with the leader, Mrs. Greenleaf.

Mrs. Katherine Cummings was hostess of the Barton Reading Club, Thursday. Favorite recipes were used for the roll call response. The hostess gave a paper on "Home Economics".

Mount Hope Rebekah Lodge will meet Friday evening. Further plans will be made for the Easter sale which takes place in March. The committee on arrangements for the get-together on the 23rd will report.

Annual Birthday Supper

Ladies of Universalist Church Held Party at Concert Hall, Thursday Evening

The ladies of the First Universalist Church served their annual "Birthday Supper" Thursday evening, Feb. 11, to a large patronage, despite bad traveling. Decorated to represent the twelve months of the year, the tables presented a most attractive appearance. Each table was labeled with an attractive placard, and nearly every place was filled, some of them overflowing, as more birthdays seemed to occur in some months than in others.

The January table, presided over by Miss Caroline Downing, was set off with red crepe paper as the border and in the center was a large snow man. Red candles lighted the table.

February, the patriotic month for Lincoln's and Washington's birthdays, carried the proverbial cherry tree for the centerpiece, and the crepe paper decorations were in accord. Mrs. Maud Decoster was the hostess.

March was carried out in green for the St. Patrick holiday. All the table appointments were in green glass with green crepe paper runners. The place cards were hand decorated and carried the date Feb. 11, 1932, Mrs. Marion Holt was the hostess.

April, the "April Fool Month" was decorated with several "Fool Caps", quite elaborately decorated and vases of pussy willows, just grown. David Klain was the host.

May, the month for lilacs, had for its centerpiece a vase of white lilacs and pink roses. The table runner was pink and white, Mrs. Rosamond Curtis, Mrs. Etta Lebroke and Mrs. Anna Rheiner were the hostesses.

June, the month of roses, had a table cover of pink roses and the centerpiece was rose buds. A large candelabra carried three red candles. Mrs. Inez Hills, Mrs. Alice McIntire and Mrs. Bessie Hill were the hostesses.

July was typically a Fourth of July setting with a large cannon cracker all ready to be set off (?) and a line across the table, of small flags. The table cover and napkins carried appropriate decorations. Uncle Sam place cards had on them appropriate verses. Miss Marion Downing and Mrs. Mary Cole were the hostesses.

August, the mid-summer month, Mrs. Harriet Waite, hostess, was in yellow and pink, with crepe paper runner arranged diagonally across the table. The centerpiece was a pink geranium.

September, the month of golden rod and yellow flowers, was in yellow, the table plaided off with yellow ribbons. The centerpiece was a vase of yellow flowers and yellow candles. The favors were tiny yellow baskets filled with yellow and white mints. Mrs. Abbie Heath and Miss Carrie Tucker were the hostesses.

October, with Frank Beck as the host was typically the Fall month. He had his own extension table, table cloth, napkins and dishes. The center runner was in white covered with autumn leaves, bordered with green crepe paper runners, the centerpiece was a vase of Chinese lantern flowers. The favors were red apples.

The November table, was presided over by Mrs. Eva Jackson, who was dressed in costume as the Puritan lady. The centerpiece represented Plymouth Rock, bordered with the "murmuring pines and hemlocks." Several pilgrims on the landing were emblematic of the first Thanksgiving and Massasoit, the friendly Indian, was with them. Then there were turkeys, pumpkins, corn shocks, etc. among the decorations. Her birthday cake was decorated with emblems representing All Souls Day, Armistice Day; the treaty between the United States and Great Britain in 1782, and in the center was the Thanksgiving bird.

December was in red, with a Christmas tree in the center, from which radiated narrow red crepe paper ribbons, to all parts of the table. The place cards all said "Merry Christmas." Miss Clara Adkins was hostess. Every table had a special birthday cake, some more elaborately decorated than others, but all delicious.

The July cake was decorated with the flag and the shield and was lettered July 1776, 1932. The waitresses were in white dresses and all had the month across the front of their aprons.

The entertainment following was a variety program, as each table provided some stunt. January started off with a humorous talk by Hugh Pendexter, which he knows how to do and make his audience laugh. February was a Washington stunt, and very cunning, with "Billy" Jellerson and Phyllis Noble as George and Martha Washington, in real picture costumes. They had appropriated verses for the Washington bi-centenery and after their little talk, they danced the old minuet. This was a part of the Upper Primary Washington program.

March, was a duet by Mrs. Anna Rheiner and Miss Daphne Winslow, who sung "Ireland Must Be Heaven, for My Mother Came from There." April was a skit by Faunce Pendexter and Miss Athalie Perry, the newlyweds. Faunce as Mr. Hartley Spooner, golf champion, and Miss Perry as Mrs. Spooner, trying to learn the game. May produced the Rev. Cartley Snezlebaum in the pulpit, and the minister in stentorian voice entertained with a burlesque sermon and various notices.

June was a June tableau, showing nine characters in June attire, showing what takes place in June. July was a tableau, "Yesterday and Today," the first scene was two old fashioned ladies, Mrs. Freida Barker and Miss Marian Downing, knitting and sewing by candle light, while Mrs. Alice Danforth read the explanatory poem. The second scene was two modern girls, the Misses Clara Adkins and Caroline Downing, with up-to-date ideas and they danced the modern step.

August was a skit by Mrs. Harriet Waite and "her gang." She told why August was the best month of the year, but was interrupted by four others who told all at once, why their month was the best. September—Edwin Barker gave a "few tunes" on the saxophone, accompanied by Miss Winslow.

For October, Paul Brown in a "few magical moments" did some clever stunts with the coins, cards and handkerchiefs. He performed for the men's supper at South Paris earlier in the evening. November was "The Landing of the Pilgrims" and five ladies, appearing as pictured in those early days, posed, while Mrs. Eva Jackson read the story. December was the annual Christmas Fair, in a burlesque, arranged by Miss Clara Adkins. The first scene was the sale, and the customers, commenting on the prices of the various articles, but deciding to purchase an apron after the price was cut. The second scene was the entertainment.

The evening was voted a great success.

Norway Grange

Lincoln Day Observed

Norway Grange held its meeting at 1:30 p. m. There was a big attendance of Norway Grangers and visitors from Bethel, South Paris, Farmington and Litchfield, N. H.

The four Granges previously invited to Norway will be guests at an all day meeting on Feb. 27. There will also be a large class for degree work. A program in honor of Washington is in progress for entertainment.

Last meetings program opened with "The Grange is Marching On", sung by everyone. The roll call brought many interesting and amusing points of view about Lincoln and many fine quotations. The music committee furnished several fine musical numbers:

Piano Solo ....Olive Michie
Clarinet Solo ....Harlan Holman
Vocal Solo ....Margaret Michie

The tax reduction problem certainly brought forth many diverse opinions about appropriation cuts. E. H. Brown, Arthur Holman, Grant Abbott, Rev. Groezinger and many others entered heartily into the discussion.

Each officer received a comic Valentine verse which he read aloud to everyone.

As a closing number Rev. Christian Groezinger read Lincoln's Gettysburg Address while an appropriate tableau was shown on the stage.

Mr. Hickford from Bethel Grange told some fine jokes and Mrs. Bancroft of Naumkeag Grange, Litchfield, spoke a few words.

The dinner committee for the next meeting is: Flossie Wyman, Viola Abbott, Ada Cox, Caroline Smith, Lizzie Howe, Alice Watson and Ada Kilgore. Hazel Hunt will have charge of the dining room.

There will be a stated meeting of Oxford Lodge No. 1 Ark Mariners, Wednesday evening, Feb. 24, at 7:30 p. m.

Miss Constance Fogg will give a public piano recital at Concert Hall, Saturday afternoon, Feb. 20, at 2:30, and will be assisted by Miss Josephine Rand, cellist, and Mrs. Pearl C. Kilborn, marimba soloist. The recital is without charge and for the public.

An Unused Tax Opportunity

Tax the Women

Here is an opportunity to raise a breeze and get some money. We need the latter in town affairs as badly as some individuals. Taxes like business should be based on fairness between the parties.

Why not assess and collect a poll tax on the female residents in this town? There are in numbers about equal or some say more, than the males, at any rate $3.00 per head would bring between two and three thousand dollars in the treasury. Its needed. Why not?

An article in the town warrant worded thusly: "To see if the town will instruct its assessors to assess a poll tax on all females of 21 years of age residing in this town on the 1st day of April and collect the same."

This would be in keeping with the practice of other states in New England. Also in keeping with the wishes of those females who believe and really are the equal of the male. It would be fair and as far as we can see, just to the town. Why not? Is there any valid reason for exemption?

We fail to see it and are willing to be shown.

Why not?

The Browning Reading Club meeting has been postponed to March 7.

The No Name Club was entertained by Mrs. Pauline McCormack, Monday evening.

Mrs. Edward McCormack is having a month's vacation from her work at the Goodwin Insurance Agency.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene L. Hutchins entertained for supper and bridge, Thursday evening, the guests including Mr. and Mrs. John C. Shepard, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Cushman, Mr. and Mrs. James N. Favor, Mrs. Florence Bradbury, Mrs. Henry B. Foster, Mr. and Mrs. George P. Locke, Mr. and Mrs. G. Leon Curtis and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert F. Andrews. A dinner was enjoyed which included the proverbial birthday cake and congratulations, for Mr. Hutchins, who was observing his birthday. The remainder of the evening was devoted to bridge with four tables in play.

Norway Farm Bureau

Joint Meeting Held Monday

The Norway Farm Bureau members held a joint meeting Monday at the Grange Hall in the series of Vegetable Garden Meetings for February and March being held in different communities. County Agent Donald H. Ridley and the Home Demonstration Agent, Mrs. Dora Decoster, were present to conduct the subjects.

The ladies held a session in the kitchen for demonstration and Mrs. Decoster made "Five Minute Cabbage" and Rutabaga turnip salad. Recipes were distributed and she gave a talk on the healthful properties of different vegetables.

The men met with Mr. Ridley, and discussed seed and fertilizer requirements disease and insects that are often serious.

The ladies joined the men for a discussion on planning for the garden, and slips were distributed to each one on which to make plans for planting the required amounts and allow for the extra for canning. Other kindred subjects were discussed. At noon, a square meal for health was served and the dessert was Washington pies, appropriately decorated. At each plate was a small red hatchet.

On March 10, an extra meeting will be held for basketry and chair seating. Materials should be ordered at once. This meeting will take the place of the one on January 14th, which was postponed, owing to the members not ordering their work materials for chair seating.

As Man to Man

A Ray of Light in the Dark

We are not reds or communists. Our forbears bled and died for this country. Worse still, we have paid our taxes. We believe war to be useless, simple and idiotic and changes nothing except the map.

The best thing for everybody is to get busy. When farmers will stand together and say to the middle men, "this is my corn, my wheat, my chickens and are worth more to me than the little money you are offering us. My family is in needs of shoes at the present time. The little driblet you would allow us to have would allow us to have would amount to nothing. We have the hides and the hemlock bark and shall hire a tanner and shoemaker from the unemployed and pay them with our fuel, shelter, corn, wheat and chickens", then we are started.

We talk about hard times, but never in prosperous times have farmers had anything but driblets for all their hard work.

We all know what poor old human nature is. Who among us is going to pass his pocket book over to a stranger and say, "Please give me back what you can." Yet farmers have always been doing that very thing. "Here, you take my wheat, my milk and give me what you can."

People are power when they stand together, tremendous, more than they realize for.

Our greatest need at the present time is a means of conveyance the common people can afford. Many families have bought their last automobile and their number is increasing all the time. Yet they are being taxed all the time to build super roads. The way things are going no one but the wealthy can afford to ride in a short time.

We know it is no use to sit around and "chitter" or wait for prosperous times. The monetary system has stubbed its toe badly on account of great greed.

We need home and town industries manned by the unemployed and paid with our produce. Farmers working together and raising enough, but none for the open markets. A notice up too for middle men and "leading financiers" to please keep out. No one to farm the farmers and farmers to work no harder or longer hours than others. Exchanging their good stuff for the things they need and the laborers working in the small shops, going to sleep easy each night, knowing their job is going to last, their rent paid and their food growing. Troubles, trials, mistakes and puzzles! Yes, but they are ahead of us anyway. How thankful we should all be it is not the substance that is lacking instead of the money.

Spring is coming and the rich, brown furrows of earth are going to open up as ready to feed us as ever. There is much to be done and we are wasting time. Instead of holding town meetings this spring to raise money, we should have meetings to see what the resources of the town are in caring for its inhabitants the next year without any suffering. Also to see if the towns can absorb some of the unemployed. Stop right now trying to gouge and rob your neighbor. Put out a notice telling what you will exchange for a certain kind of work. Let others tell what kind of work they will exchange for certain commodities. There is time yet "for every one to be happy".

—Taxpayer.

REWARD

Little Old Aunt Serepta Day lived down the way,
In a house so old it was silver gray.
Her form was bent with the weight of years,
And she wore an old shawl tied over her ears.
Her homemade shoes were heavy and stout,
But her feet kept dry when she went out.
Her knobby old fingers never were still,
She knit, and knit with a right good will,
And she said, with a smile,
"Some children living within a mile,
Will need them, I know,
When the winter snow begins to blow."
On rusty hinges her door dropped down,
So it couldn't be locked when she went to town
But she said, with a smile,
"I've not a thing that's worth the while,
To be afraid anyone would steal,
For such people, I surely do feel
Don't live around this neighborhood,
As far as I know everyone is good"
And so she walked on with a radiant face,
Almost the last of an innocent race,
She lived alone and the love light shone
In her wrinkled face, and blest each corner of the place.
She never was tired, or faint, or weak,
For she always had pleasant words to speak.
Because she loved all, why all loved her,
For everyone to her was dear.
It's the law of the Universe far and near,
Heed and believe: "As ye give ye receive."

The New Dusts you can see Stick
give more permanent protection from each application
These "Kolo" Dusting Materials have sticking properties not found in any other dusting material. They may be applied with equal effect to either wet or dry foliage, and after once "set," will stick for weeks throughout rain and wind. This dust is a visible sticker. You can see it plainly without lens or microscope. Experiments demonstrate that this sticker dust retains a larger percentage of sulphur on the leaf surface for a longer period than is the case of "Lime Sulphur" Solution, or most any other liquid spraying material.

STATE OF MAINE
PUBLIC NOTICE

In conformity with the provisions of law, the Commissioner of Inland Fisheries and Game, deeming it for the best interests of the State, hereby promulgates the following rules and regulations:

RULES AND REGULATIONS.

Section 1. Commencing on the 5th day of March, A. D. 1932, it shall be lawful to fish through the ice, in accordance with the provisions of the general laws, in that part of Lake Pennesseewassee known as the Bog, bounded as follows: From the dam at the outlet of said lake to the two signs posted below Crockett's Bridge, in the town of Norway, county of Oxford.

It shall be unlawful for any person to have in possession at any time any kind of fish taken in violation of any provisions of these rules and regulations.

Section 2. Whoever violates any provision of these rules and regulations shall be subject to a penalty of not more than three hundred dollars and costs, or imprisonment for not more than ninety days, or both said fine and imprisonment.

Dated at Augusta, Maine, this 16th day of February, A. D. 1932.

8-10 GEORGE J. STOBIE, Comm'r.

The house rat has the unenviable reputation of being the most destructive animal in the world, and new poisons are constantly being tried on it. So far, red squill has been found to be one of the most efficient, economical and safe rat poisons. Its chief value lies in the fact that it is practically a poison specific for rats, and seldom harms domestic livestock if eaten by them. Red squill, a perennial plant that grows wild on the Mediterranean coast, is dried, powdered and used in baits in concentrations ranging from 5 to 10 per cent.

How Can Norway Cut Costs So As to Reduce Taxes?

quarters a mile or more away. In the town of Norway there was a school more than nine miles from school headquarters at the village and four or five miles of distance was common, with transportation by "Old Dobbin" or "Shank's Mare".

School costs could be reduced by going back to former methods. If the people wont do so, they may stand the expense. Another way to reduce expenses is to abolish the courses in Agriculture and Domestic Science, both of them recent innovations.

Mr. Smith's table shows that there was no expense in 1930 for music, drawing or evening schools. Has that expense been abolished as a start at reducing costs?

"An Interested Taxpayer" is right in opposing any reduction in the pay of teachers. They already are so poorly paid for the things that they must do and must have that there is a constant loss of them to other work. That had begun forty years ago, and is continuing today.

At one time thirty-one years ago, there were six former school teachers working in the shoe factory at Norway, and they all gave the same reasons for making the change—easier work, shorter hours, better pay in the factory. If anybody questions either of these three items, let him read what is required of a teacher, as told by "An Interested Taxpayer". There many more such in our factories today, wherever factories are running.

THE COST OF ROADS

Some of the items of the cost of roads, as told in Mr. Smith's table, from 1919 to 1930, are:

Winter roads increased 415%.
Highways and bridges increased 101%.
State aid highway increased 251%.
Total road bills increased 77%.

There also are new items, the largest being $3,944.23 for third class roads, while the former item of "Sundry Road Expenditures", amounting in 1919 to $6,653.70, has disappeared. Perhaps a different method if itemizing in bookkeeping will account for these.

In what way can the town reduce highway costs?

PAUPER COSTS

The town farm expense decreased 48%, while the poor of the farm were 277% more cost to the town. The town must not let those poor people suffer and its noticeable that the inquiries about costs do not mention the paupers. Norway is getting off easily on this item as compared with most towns and with practically all cities.

GENERAL ITEMS

Some items under this, in Mr. Smith's table are:

Interest charges increased 215%.
Salaries of officers increased 29%.
Public library increased 60%.
Miscellaneous expenses increased 965%.
Total general items increased 128%.

The town's rent bill has shrunk, but armory expense is a new item since 1919. Other new items: shade trees, excise tax, advertising. There also are items in two years for American Legion and soldiers' wives. Where does the town wish to economize in this group?

LIMIT TO TAXATION

There is a limit to tax possibilities. In the well know phrase of business life, its "all that the traffic will bear". We appear to be approaching that point. Part of the present business depression is due to taxes being so high that some business enterprises find the returns from the business insufficient for the maintenance of the business after the taxes are paid.

Congress is finding it necessary to be careful in appropriations for hard times relief and in its devising of new tax schemes in order to relieve the depression, lest the added cost be more than business can carry.

If you are going to reduce taxation, you have got to do without something that you have been getting by taxation. The total town expenditures increased 99% in eleven years.

—A former Norway Citizen, Feb., 1932.

Railroad Situation

By R. L. Cummings of West Paris

Now that our railroads have been granted a very substantial increase in rates and have secured a ten per cent cut in the wages of all employees, we are a little surprised to see in the morning papers a move for another slice out of the public to the amount of $361,465,815. That sum being one-half of the excess profits they were allowed to earn under the Transportation Act of 1919.

What was that act?

During the war the railroads having been run down and impoverished by their banker control for their own profit, were taken over by our government that they might be improved immediately, so as to function to carry on the war traffic in a more suitable manner. This was done at great expense to the people, but results were accomplished.

The transportation act of 1919 called The Cummins Esch. bill turned the roads back to their private management, under the plea that it was for more efficient management and lower costs to the public. Under the provisions of this act the railroads were to be paid from the United States Treasury such a sum as would pay 5 1-2 to 6% on their capitalization (not excluding their watered stock) until the Interstate Commerce Commission could institute rates that would pay such dividends. When such rates were in operation, if the roads earned more than a fair dividend, one-half of the excessive earnings were to be delivered to the U. S. Treasury. The Commission ruled that 5 3-4% was a fair dividend. Now those railroads have a surplus of $361,465,632, that belongs to the people of this country under the clearly defined act that the railroads themselves fought for. They refuse to pay it over and are asking for the repeal of that part of the act that requires this refund.

Another interesting fact in the matter is that under government management, with the roads operated by the same men that operated for the private management, the roads were loaded down with useless employees and unnecessary expenses, so that the roads were running behind about $30,000,000 per month. The advocates of the measure declared that such things would not be tolerated by the people. When the roads were returned to them and dividends and running expenses to be paid from the U. S. Treasury, they put that deficit up to $100,000,000 per month, and we paid the bills. Now that their net profits have exceeded their 5 3-4% over a term of ten years, ending with 1930, they refuse to pay over the excess profits that they were to pay under the terms of their own measure, and ask for the repeal of the measure, on the grounds that it is difficult for the government to collect of them.

Our railroads put the rate for carrying milk and many other farm products so high that trucks carry them cheaper and now the railroads are for having the trucks put under some commission that oblige them to charge higher rates.

Another interesting item appears in regard to Norman U. Greenlaw, who appeared to lead certain Oxford Bears (so called) in the election of Donald B. Partridge as representative from our second district. Under the revised rules we are in Congressman Beedy's district. Now it seems that Greenlaw's forces are supposed to secure either Congressman Beedy's position as congressman or the office of Governor of Maine for our Congressman Partridge. Won't Mr. Greenlaw please inform us how Representative Partridge will vote on this law to give the railroads this $361,465,815, that belongs to the people?

Some of the farmers here that are selling their milk for less than 3c per quart and can't get wages for carrying on their farms, to say nothing about dividends on their investments, may be interested to know how our representatives are going to vote on matters that most vitally concern them.

Governor Gardiner says the "farmer in Maine is secure". That all may be so, but we still hope there is life, and if life there is hope. They vote Dmocratic in the South and Republican in Maine and get it in the neck both ways. We elect bankers and rich people to keep down income taxes. Railroad attorneys to keep down freight rates and reduce the taxes on railroads that ours may be higher; corporation tools to see that we sell in an open market and pay our goods in a protected market.

Our master minds of finance have created the greatest shell game on earth: that is indirect taxation. Under the magic spell of the Mellons, Morgans, Schwabs, Garies, Henry Fords, Insulls, etc., following the rule of plucking the goose that will do the least squawking. When you buy an aluminum kettle, a pound of nails, a farming tool, a milk pail or a tin lizzy, you pay a tax that covers the profits of that blessed 504 people in the richest land of earth, the home of the free and land of the brave, whose annual income runs from $1,000,000 to $100,000,000 per year and all the income taxes they appear to pay. For with the servants of those men in the saddle all their income taxes are added to the cost of their goods and you pay that tax when you buy the goods.

Can we ever make President Hoover and those rich boys understand that what business needs is customers that have money to buy things with?

Where would these great incomes be today if we had not put 4,000,000 of our boys into the ranks to stop the conquest of the world by Germany? Why not issue $2,000,000,000 legal tender treasury notes and pay the men that did that job the $1 and $1.25 per day that we have promised them? There will never be a time when they will need it more, and there will, we hope, never be a time when the business of the country will need that money in circulation any more than it does now.

P. S. Re-stated in few words: All of our railroads in the United States during the past ten years ending with 1930 earned a net profit of 5-3-4% and in addition a net profit of $722,931,632. That means an amount of $25.00 to every family of five in this country, with a little surplus of $97,931,630, left over. Our government had expended hundreds of millions of dollars in improvements on these roads as well as hundreds of millions of cash direct from the treasury and in 1919 the people by the use of unlimited amounts of propaganda from all the moneyed interests allowed this measure to be put over while they slept. It was a great victory for the corporations. Now those same corporations refuse to pay in accordance with their own agreement and ask that their own lawn be nullified. They refuse to pay.

What are we going to do about it?

The Children's Corner

Greedy Island

In my Airplane to Greedy Isle,
I went one afternoon,
'Tis many thousand miles away,
Afar beyond the moon;
And there I found the queerest tribe
Of boys and girls, I ween,
They really are quite different,
From any you have seen.

This country is most beautiful,
As fair as our own land;
The streets are broad and cleanly kept,
The buildings tall and grand;
But all these funny children
In this isle I went to see,
Have eyes right in the very place,
Their "tummies" ought to be.

I noticed when their mothers called
For them to come to meals,
They answered—tumbling with a rush,
With greedy grunts and squeals;
They pushed and crowded right and left,
Each scrambling for a place,
And not one paused a moment,
Nor bowed his head for grace.

They never waited to be served,
When once they had a seat,
But reached for things, and without shame
Began at once to eat;
And not one used a knife nor fork,
But dived into his food,
With little fingers all unwashed,
I'm sure you'd think them rude.

And when they'd stuffed their little selves,
'Till they could eat no more,
There yet would be upon their plates
Enough for three or four;
These greedy little children
Wanted all that they could see,
Because their eyes are in the place
Their "tummies" ought to be.

Dear Corner Cousins: One day last week while in town I saw several young ladies out riding horse back, which seems to be quite the fashion now and it reminded me of a little experience I had one day, years ago.

Father used to do lots of farming in those days and I helped him what I could. When hoeing time came there was lots of cultivating to do and I used to ride the horse for him to cultivate as my brother wasn't old enough to ride.

I got used to riding under the limbs of the apple trees in the orchard, by slipping down on one side of the horse and hanging to his mane until he passed out from under the trees and I never used a saddle. One day after I got older and father had raised a colt to take the old horse's place when got too old to do the work; I thought I would try and ride him a little to get him broke in when the time came for him to do his share of the work. I took a bridle and wandered down to the pasture where he was running and caught him, led him up beside the stone wall. I climbed onto the wall and leaped onto his back. Things commenced to change in a hurry!

Now let me draw you a picture of the pasture, so you can enjoy in your imagination the scene presented to your vision of a lovely green pasture, on a hill, that gradually slopes down to a brook, gently gurgling along through a little meadow, the same brook I had fished in many a day, with a pine grove on one side and a slight elevation of the land to the wall on the other side, where I took my first lesson, with a colt, horseback riding. When I leaped onto his back, he gave one leap forward, stopped quick and kicked up behind and away I went over his head the length of the long reins, it knocked the breath out of me, but I hung to the reins until I could stand up, then I tried it again.

I had quite a time to get him up to the wall, but after a long time I finally got him near enough and I thought I could make it. I gave a grand leap and landed on his back. That time I knew what to expect and went prepared. I locked my fingers in his mane and my feet under his sides and hung tight; he dropped his head down and kicked up behind, that time I stayed; then he came up on his hind legs, but I was there when he came down, then he tried a few stunts in bucking. I came very near losing my seat, but didn't; then he started to run and if ever anyone took a wild ride, I had one then. We went up hill and down vale, turned short corners, took a run through the pine grove, where the low boughs came near scraping me from his back, but I tried my drop down stunt and he ran until we were both a white foam, than he came to a stop after he tried to jump the bars; he came very near breaking both of our necks.

I slid down and leaned on the fence until I could stand and get my breath, then I took the bridle off and went home. I never said a word about it and mother wondered how I got so lamed up and father said, "he never had a colt that broke into back riding so easy, just like an old horse". I guess he wouldn't have thought he was easy if he had taken the ride I did.

Later I got a saddle and we used to have some dandy old runs and he could run.

I am glad to see Aunt Betsy is back on her job once more. Sorry to hear of her sickness and bereavement, and hope to meet all the Corner Cousins in the near future. Yours truly,—Grandma.

Old Bill Says

The Goose of Goose Corner last week certainly had it right in regard to the radio. Now looking up the definition of music I find music described as a concord of sweet sounds. Now is there a human being any where that can call the sounds we hear over the radio, sweet, and besides that they are not in concord with each other. The nearest way I can figure it out is that each one of the so called orchestras have something they pound or rattle or squeal and the one who makes the most hideous noise is declared the star.

I always supposed in music someone instrument carried the tune, as we old chaps call it (I don know what the new name might be), but listen as near as I can, I find no indication of a tune.

The best description of it I ever heard was when a girl asked her father, "Oh dad, did you ever hear anything so wonderfull as that jazz?" "I never did but once," the old man grunted, "and that was a collision between a carfull of empty milk cans and a truck load of ducks."

Oh, once in a while, by sitting up and standing the noise till midnight, you may hear one little bit of song you will like, but you have to listen to so much stuff you don't like, it robs you of the pleasure.

I certainly pity some of those so called singers when I imagine them coming up on their tiptoes and shaking all over trying to reach a high note and falling a little short after all the struggle.

Of course I do not profess to be a seer in regard to music, but I have played a violin nearly fifty years and I always wanted my violin in tune, but with the music of today it saves the bother of tuning your instrument. Now I do not say my views on this subject are right, only this is the way it seems to me. I may be mistaken and if people never made a mistake, why is the rubber put in the end of this pencil.

Oh yes, Goose, I agree with you and speaking of depression, one cause for worry is this: People are finding out at last that they can not eat an automobile, neither can they wear a radio. A few years ago you could not make them see that our money was getting tied up in these things.

I see our Sweden correspondent to the Advertiser agrees with the taxpayer of Otisfield. I am glad to hear it. The taxpayer of Otisfield wants to know what is the matter with Maine, well, there is enough that might be helped! When our pulp wood comes from Russia, and as I hear it the piling they are using on some of the bridge building comes from California. I hope this is not so, but that is the talk I heard. It seems there is enough the matter. Have we not enough timber in Maine for pulp and piling and what few other jobs there are without going out of the state? We know Maine always voted against liquor. Massachusetts got the revenue.

Thinking over the political situation my opinion is this: that if the Democrats nominate Al Smith for president, they will do more towards electing Herbert Hoover than the Republicans possibly can, though I am a Republican. I think if Franklin D. Roosevelt is nominated nothing will prevent his election. Smith cannot carry the solid South and without that he cannot get elected, while Roosevelt would carry the South, this has been proved four years ago.

It is my belief that the automobile dealer has done more toward ruining the younger generation than the bootlegger has, yet the government is using every means in its power to suppress the bootlegger and stop him from selling liquor to our young people and will let the auto salesman sell our boys an old mess of junk, putting them in debt. After a while the thing gives out, then they go back and swap it in for another car and give boot. There is where they get soaked good and proper. By this time the boy don't know what to do and crime creeps in; he trades off mortgaged property, jail faces him, and he will steal his parents to help him, which they often do, turning themselves outdoor to do it.

So it makes me believe he is doing more damage than the bootlegger. You won't find many mortgaged homes caused by the bootlegger, but you will find whole lots of them caused by the auto and that money has gone where there is no hope of recovering a cent of it.

If your boy gets a quart of moonshine after he sobers up he will take hold and work for a while, but he don't get over the auto fever! You say moonshine is apt to make him blind or kill him. Well I guess the auto has put as many, often innocent ones, in the hospital or jail as moonshine has. I would say if you jail a bootlegger you ought to jail the man who sells our boys a cheap auto.

—Old Bill.

THE MOON AND VENUS

O Moon! as I looked out my window high,
I saw you shine up in the sky,
And by your side a bride so fair,
Methought 'twas but a diamond rare.

But as I gazed upon your face,
The lines of love I plainly traced,
And as you bent your glorious head,
I knew the vows of love were said.

And never was a bride so fair
As Venus, poised up in the air,
Close to your side, her shining face,
Her head a-droop with love's rare grace.

O glorious moon, O drooping star,
Sometimes I wonder what you are,
And if your love for aye'll be true,
Where'er you go, whate'er you do.

O Moon, we hail you both with joy,
We give you both a loud ahoy!
And as you sink down in the west,
Let earth rejoice, the world is blest.

Charles Bradford brought in a large lens with green shade, Wednesday morning, lost from a headlight of some automobile. This was found on Main St., and owner will find same at Advertiser Office.

A Lincoln Campaign Poster of 1860 has been brought from long concealment by H. F. Fletcher of Lynn, Mass., who recently discovered he possessed a valuable bit of political and historical material. The poster was used in the campaign of 1860 and contains two large ovals containing the portraits of Abraham Lincoln and Hannibal Hamlin. Across the top is a banner with the inception, "The Union Must and Shall be Preserved". There are other inscriptions which were slogans familiar in anti-slavery territory. This information was furnished by Mrs. Maford Mann, daughter of Mr. Fletcher, owner of the relic.

Osman W. Brown, the well known Lynn newspaper man was elected president of the Lynn Press Club, Feb. 11. The election was by acclamation and marked the first time in the history of the club that the president has been thus chosen. Brownie apparently is popular with the crowd to win the high seat with this enviable record. We quote the following from the Telegram-News (Lynn, Mass.). The newly-elected president was born in Norway, Me., where he learned the printing trade by serving an apprenticeship in the office of the Norway, Oxford County Advertiser. His first writing was personals picked up on the street, and after writing special stories for Sunday newspapers he went to New York, where he was employed on general work by the New York World and the New York American. Later Mr. Brown worked on the Boston Traveler, and after coming to Lynn was employed on the Item and the News before the latter was acquired by Frederick W. Enwright and became the Telegram News Besides being a copy reader on the Telegram News, Mr. Brown has been district correspondent for the Boston Herald for sixteen years. He is married, his wife, May A. Brown, being a prominent member of the Lynn Women's Club, the Lynn Y. W. C. A. and other organizations.

Daniel Webster in March, 1852, in Washington, D. C., wrote his farm manager at Franklin, N. H., and in closing said:

"I think I never wrote you a word before on politics. I shall not do it again. I only say—love your country, and your whole country; and when men attempt to persuade you, to get you into a quarrel with the laws of other states tell them that you intend to mind your own business, and advise them to mind theirs.

"John Taylor, you are a free man; you possess good principles; you have a large family to provide for by your labor. Be thankful to the government which does not oppress you, which does not bear you down by excessive taxation; but which holds out to you and to yours the hope of all the blessings which liberty, industry and security may give.

John Taylor, thank God morning and evening that you were born in such a country.

"John Taylor, never write me another word about politics. Give my kindest remembrances to your wife and children, and when you look from your eastern windows upon the graves of my family, remember that he who is the author of this letter must soon follow them to another world."

—Journal-Transcript.

Webster probably kept his promise as he died that year. But what would Daniel now say about taxes and the government were he living?

It seems that Walter Sanborn, editor of the North Penn Reporter of Lansdale, follows our advice in this instance. He declined a nomination to Congress. The Philadelphia Inquirer has this to say:

" is a case where both editors are right. Brother E. S. Moser of the Collegeville Independent nominates for Congress, Brother Walter Sanborn, the Horace Greeley of Lansdale's North Penn Reporter.

"And in his usual terse style, Brother Sanborn declines that honor. Which makes it unanimous with all three of us.

"Brother Moser, dwelling in the rarefied atmosphere of Ursinus College, had a noble thought in suggesting the Argus-eyed Sanborn for a berth at Washington.

"But the Lansdale editor, having when a boy breathed the independent oxygen of Norway, Maine—redolent of memories of Artemus Ward—saw in it nothing but what Artemus was wont to call a "joak".

"You can, and the people do pick up a Congressman any old place.

"Far more difficult for Lansdale to find an editor to fill Sanborn's shoes. Or as Lincoln put the same thought: 'He could make a brigadier general with a stroke of the pen, but it required three long years to produce a good mule'.

"So I'm glad Brother Sanborn declined the honor so generously tendered to him by Brother Moser.

"It is said the bulls, bears and lambs of Wall street all fell alike as they most certainly look alike.

"And the way these Montgomery editors can lie down together with no thought of gall or wormwood in their hearts is beautiful."

Don C. Seitz of New York says: That table of Fred Smith's is mighty interesting and could have been made more so by a comparison of population and assessed values with 1919. Have him fix one up. The tax-eaters have become the curse of the land and the schools the biggest feeders.

Went over Sunday evening to uplift the Town Hall Club and was pleased to meet there that granddaughter of Dexter Hawkins who used to spend her summer in Norway with her Aunt Adelphi. Not much doing here. Presume the presidential election will spoil the year.

Seems to be no doubt of Hoover's re-nomination; the miserable Republicans have no one to oust him with unless they should commandeer Coolidge, which is a most improbable alternative. Roosevelt has the lead with the Democrats, but Smith is acting mischievously and almost anything can happen. Personally I think Roosevelt is the best man who is being mentioned. He has made an unexceptionable governor.

We are having our first cold spell, though you would probably regard it as a breath from the tropics. Have got to go to Rhinebeck next Sunday to talk about Washington at the Episcopal church. Regards to the shop. Do not mourn over your birthday. You still have lots of time. Elihu Root was eighty-seven yesterday, and is still going strong, though six years behind John D. Rockefeller.

Tomatoes are cheaper! Potatoes are cheaper! Now's the time to see "Patricia"! Here she comes! Her arrival at the Opera House, Friday night, Feb. 19, will be one of the outstanding events of the winter months. You can't afford to miss it. The Senior Class feels that it is offering you an evening of wholesome entertainment and it seeks your patronage and cooperation.

The Junior High Assembly last Friday was in the nature of a patriotic program. The high school glee club, as guest artists, presented a series of six choruses, each of which portrayed some phase of Washington's career. "America" and "The Star Spangled Banner" were sung in unison. A violin quartet composed of Irene Tubbs, Elizabeth Ariel, Marion Judkins and Irene Freeman played in a pleasing manner Severn's "La Brunette." The program also included the singing of George Coban's "Father of the Land We Love" written especially for Washington Bicentennial programs. The program was under the direction of Miss Eleanor Wood.

The Freshman-Sophomore class have been studying refinishing furniture and among the other things they have painted three discarded typewriting tables gray to match the furniture in the clothing laboratory. The girls mixed their own paint for this, starting with white paint. Elizabeth Walker is doing a very creditable piece of work taking paint from an old table which she is going to refinish.

A notebook contest has been carried on in the seventh and eighth grade, Home Economics classes this year. A similar contest is being started for the sewing class.

The Mechanic Falls Girls' Team journeyed up to meet the Norway Girls' Team last Friday night, February 12. Although when the Norway girls went to Mechanic Falls they were beaten, the Norway girls won at Norway. The score was 28-30. The girls are now practising hard that they may win the South Paris game, February 26. This is the last game of the season.

The Norway Junior High Girls' Basket Ball team played the Oxford team at Norway, Saturday, February 13. The score was 22 to 20 in Oxford's favor. This was the last game of the season. The girls have all kept up in practice and played very well. We hope that next year the team will have better luck in turning the score to Norway's favor.

Schools, Taxes and Town Meetings

Things That Should Be Done

In looking through my last week's Advertiser I was much interested in the piece about schools.

It is about the right time to publish such a piece, so to raise larger sums of money.

Why wouldn't it be a good idea when all over the world hard times are prevailing and people are taxed beyond all endurance, and everything looks darker than ever before. To cut our big appropriations, cut our schools and school officials' salarys down to compare with the cuts other people are taking? Why harp on our teachers? The town of Paris has as high paid teachers as any town and as good as any, but after all money cannot buy brains.

Our roads need work done on them to make them passable, bushes cut so children can go to school and not get lost side of the road.

One thing I do think almost every sensible voter would be interested in would be to cut our expenses instead of raising more.

Who does the big appropriations come on? Not the factory men all together. It is the farmers. I judge the one writing the piece about schools in our last paper must be a man with a little school of his own.

Conditions will never be any better until men only paying a $3.00 poll tax are shut off from voting for big or expensive things for the town. All our mills are closed town meeting day, so to give all the men a chance to vote. But they have to vote about so I guess. Allow tax payers to have a word to say without the thought they are being ridiculed. Why let two or three men entertain as long as they wish and voters not allowed to speak. Our meeting is out at 2 p. m. Why not give more time to discussing our town's business and go home a little later and better satisfied. Furthermore why are our town affairs so blind no one can understand them, and no one seems to be able or wish to make them any clearer. No one ever comes home feeling they have had any better insight on any business affair.

Lets get together this year and copy our towns adjoining and allow everyone free speach and it may help—two heads are better than one.

Pythians' Novelty Minstrels

To Be Presented Next Wednesday

A musical show in the form of a minstrel entertainment, will be presented in Norway Opera House, Wednesday evening, Feb. 24, 8 o'clock, under the auspices of Lake Temple Pythian Sisters. Practically every one taking part is a member of the Knights and Sisters.

This is the first attempt at staging a novelty entertainment of this magnitude and takes the place of the annual drama so well known in past years. Business conditions caused a departure from the established custom of producing expensive royalty plays, but the change will not in any way lower the high standard of entertainment maintained by Lake Temple.

The setting will be an ensemble of more than forty performers dressed in colorful costumes. A semi-circle front row will contain four end men comedians, interlocutor and other important performers. Near at hand will be six black mammies, a male quartet and the specialty people. A large chorus has been trained to support every vocal number.

Not one minute will be wasted for the show goes from start to finish with something doing and no time out for scene shifting or other delays. The specialty performers having places in the ensemble, will be introduced to the footlights from that position.

In a general way the program will include choruses, vocal solos, end songs and plenty of funny jokes nicely mixed. In addition special numbers will be given by a male quartet, a saxaphone quintet, a solo dancer and others.

Good snappy instrumental accompaniment is necessary for the real darky tang. Well, they have it in the orchestra composed of Rubira Sharon, piano. Albert Thompson, sax; Ralph Akroyd, cornet; "Bud" Dunham, banjo, and Bob Ramsey, drums. This team will be stationed on the stage high above the singers.

The following artists will appear in the colorful group forming the stage setting for the evening:

Interlocutor ..... Avis Huff
End Men ..... "Trapper" Perry; "Duffy" Lewis; "Uncle Ed" Emerson and "Happy" Corey.
Black Mammies ..... Eva Anderson, Bertha Lovejoy, Florence Faneuf, Anna Morse, Caroline Smith and Lola McAllister.
Male Quartette ..... Howard E. Tyler, Elon L. Brown, Arthur Morgan and Irvin Joslin.
Chorus and Novelty Artists ..... Bernice Hill, Mary Lewis, Sadie Lapham, Mary Kimball, Marcia Linscott, Ella Partridge, Nellie Goodwin, Marjory Stevens, Addie Lovejoy, Maud Spiller, Jessie Everett, Hazel Morse, Hattie Harvey, Etta Lebroke, Mildred Huff, Lydia Whitman, Frances McAllister, Inez McAllister, Gwendolyn Bicknell, Margaret Anderson, Laura Yates, Isabelle Covey, Winfield Partridge, Edward Anderson, James Harvey, Frank Lovejoy, Chas. Huff, Leon Kimball and Cleve Goodwin.

Mrs. Mary Bicknell is chairman of the committee hustling to make the entertainment bright and wide awake. Miss Eleanor Wood is giving valuable assistance as musical director.

Price of admission has been set low and members have tickets for sale. Seats will be checked at Opera House box office, Saturday, Feb. 20 at 2 p. m. One more word—a dance will follow the show with a very small charge attached.

Miss Geraldine Paragard attended the winter carnival held at Hebron Academy last Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

The Past Presidents' Club of the Daughters of Veterans will be entertained Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Mary Kimball, Elm Street. Supper at 6:45 followed by a social evening and a short business meeting. The husbands of the members are invited.

Methodist

10:30 morning service with message by the minister. The evening service commences at 7 o'clock. The junior choir will sing a special selection. The evening address will be another one in the series of miracles of the Lord. Last Sunday morning there was a good attendance and the true signs of the times are that the morning preaching hours are growing in numbers. The minister brings a helpful message from God's Word and the response is quite commendable. The miracle series is one that has already begun to attract attention. Last Sunday evening the first miracle in Cana of Galilee was splendidly told and reviewed and a second miracle story is eagerly anticipated by those who were present.

The Fourth Quarterly Conference convenes next Tuesday evening with a free parish supper and the Rev. Mr. Garland, the district superintendent, will preside. Written reports will be submitted for the year's work.

What is the Movie of the Month?

Perhaps you don't know or care. Thousands of people are like that—for just one reason. They don't "follow" the movies because they can't enjoy them. Their eyes won't let them. Only normal eyes or eyes made normal with the help of glasses can comfortably and easily "carry on" without eye-strain, nervousness, headaches, etc. If the movies hurt your eyes, don't blame the movies, but look to your eyes.

MEN'S SUPPER AND ENTERTAINMENT

Rain and slippery walking, Thursday night made no great impression on the attendance at the annual event given in the vestry by the men of the Congregational church. About 275 were fed on native turkey, potatoes, squash, pastry and other good things supposed to have been prepared by the male cooks. Don Bean presided in the kitchen, where the birds were carved and potatoes mashed. He had plenty of experienced assistance from Robert Wise, Roy Small, Earle Clifford, Leslie Cummings, Charles Gordon, Scott Martin, Lewis Holden and Edward Shaw. Rev. R. H. Colby presided in the dining room with Irving O. Barrows head waiter and a corps of assistants including S. D. Nutting, C. H. Howard, Herbert Woodworth, A. French Stevens, Wilbur Gammon and others.

Howard Shaw furnished music during the supper hour. He had an orchestra billed as the "Fashion Plate". The effect was carried out with an incongruous display of dresses and hats plus rouge and lip stick.

The annual entertainment was a break away from conventional forms with considerable variety introduced for laughing purposes. A special meeting of the Seneca Club was the main theme and vehicle for talent from the "Homemade Circuit" to galavant their stuff.

The show opened with the assembling of club members and the routine generally followed by the ladies at the meetings. Twelve members especially prominent in the affairs of the Congregational parish were impersonated closely by Dr. D. M. Stewart, as madam president; Eugene Lowell,, Merton V. Bolster, Harold Fletcher, Frank Goldsmith, Don Bean, Senator Stanley M. Wheeler, Wilbur Gammon, Earl Farnham, George F. Eastman, Postmaster Earle Clifford, and Rev. R. H. Colby.

There was nothing shabby about the coats, gowns and other finery. Wearing apparel was up to the minute and so clever were the disguises that for some minutes the spectators had a nice time guessing who was who. A number easily qualified as professional female impersonators.

Individual peculiarities were copied to perfection and made a hit with members who could see the joke on themselves and others and remain good sports.

Much comedy developed, perhaps the hit being a health exercise given by an expert (Nick Mather) and a group of members wishing to reduce superfluous flesh. The song hit, "Bend Down Sisters" did the trick.

The meeting was turned over to the Mrs Agnes Morton (Rev. R. H. Colby) club entertainment committee and the "ladies" cleared the stage for the second part of the session.

Paul Brown, the Norway high school magician, introduced as "Rev. Mr. Heimer" opened with a short program of mystifying tricks performed with playing cards, coins and handkerchiefs. He is a pupil of Rev. Conard B. Rheiner of Norway, who became a professional conjurer to acquire the financial means for college. Young Brown has the earmarks of a regular performer and has already filled several professional engagements.

Gordon Thayer and Stanley Whitney were the dapper "Twin Town Twins" in a black faced singing number.

Nicholas Mather as "Eddie Banter" and assisted by Ernest Goodwin, known as "Lightfoot" Goodwin, made merry in a popular song hit with the comforting assurance, tomatoes are cheaper, etc. This was done in black face a la Eddie Cantor.

Gilbert Stevens, known of late as "Stepping Steve", jumped into the comedy class as a dancing tramp and put across his tap work with an added variety of characteristic leg action incidental to counting railroad ties.

Cornelius Salie appeared as "Rudy himself" using a microphone and one of Rudy Vallee's favorite broadcasts. His piano accompanist was Miss Barbara Beede.

Clarence Huff, trumpet soloist, completely disguised in a tailored suit, fox fur, a saucy hat and just the right amount of dry rouge, was called from the "Fashion Plates" to do his big town stuff on his favorite instrument. Mrs. Helen Shaw was piano accompanist.

The Harmony Boys, or rather girls, sang a group of lively choruses, a number were echoes from the Gay 90's. Their names on the program were Eddie, Agnes, Madge and Bessie. Off the stage they are called Connie Salie, R. H. Colby, Morton Bolster and Earl Farnham.

Judge Harry M. Shaw in the role of "Judge Straw" entertained with a clever line of jokes, monologue style. Several of a local flavor went over big.

W. S. Chandler as "Lightning Lil", impersonator with three rapid changes, was the last number of the program.

Shaw's Fashion Plate orchestra aided materially in making the vaudeville a success and keep up the spirits of the crowd between the supper and show.

The Phalean Club of the Congregational church will observe Gentlemen's Night at the vestry, Tuesday evening, Feb. 23. A covered dish supper will be served at 6:30. A good time for all.
